Vote Today

Edmonton's municipal elections take place today. There are two candidates for the mayoralty, twelve for aldermanic seats, and six for full school board vacancies. There are five aldermen to be elected and three public school trustees. The mayor will be elected for one year. All the other elections are for a two-year term. One alderman and one public school trustee must be a designated South Side representative. Voters on either side of the river can vote for candidates living on the other side if they choose.

There are more than 61,000 names on the voters' list. Last year there were something more than 58,000, but only 18 per cent of the qualified voters voted. There was a far from creditable display of public interest in civic affairs. It was an instance of democracy defeated by apathy. It is to be hoped that the showing today will be not only better, but at least two or three times better.

Over in Holland at this time Edmonton men are fighting on the approaches to Rotterdam, scene of the first and one of the worst exhibitions of Nazi savagery in Western Europe. The city is being defended by a city of men and women who are fighting to restore the city to its former status and to restore the franchise of Edmonton voters who willfully refused to make use of their franchise?

To vote today is a duty, as it is also a privilege. To deliberately stay away from the polls is to shirk the plain responsibility of a citizen. Everyone who can do so should go to the polls and vote for the candidates of his choice. He should do that because it is a duty to the city, because it is a privilege to make our democratic system go forward on a fair vote.

How Many Buyers?

A Regina despatch notes that with Saskatchewan nearing the halfway mark in the amount of Victory bonds sold, the number of buyers numbered only 40,000 plus of a buyers' quota of more than 155,000. That is to say, little more than a quarter as many people had bought bonds as were counted on to do so.

This showing may improve later, it is to be earnestly hoped. But it is not over the reason, it does not promise well for the future when only a small minority take such an opportunity to put away savings where they will be safe and will bear a regular income.

Albertans are apparently doing better than they. They should in their own interests do four times better. These bonds are the safest investment that can be offered to Canadians. Their value cannot fluctuate any more than the value of the Canadian dollar. They are sold at par, and their real estate prices, stock prices, or other security values. They are sound collateral for a loan. They can always be sold, as a market is guaranteed by the Bank of Canada. The interest will be paid regularly, and the bonds cashed promptly at maturity.

The greater the number of buyers, the more a community who buy bonds, the fewer will find themselves helpless if adverse times come along, the more stable the community will be, and the more capital will be available for personal use and community advancement. No person who can buy a bond should neglect to do so.

Another Item of Loss

It was a curious turn of fate that after being held in home waters for upwards of three years Japan's main fleet was defeated so far from home bases that the crippled ships were wrecked in the waters of the Gulf of Allied planes and fast surface craft. At the close of the battle the losses were given as 24 ships sunk or damaged. The number has now risen to 30. The losses of ships were evidently as disastrous as the action, at least in the number of vessels which sustained injury and were rendered unusable, and the loss of ships was evidently as disastrous as the action, at least in the number of vessels which sustained injury and were rendered unusable.

The loss of Japanese seamen in the battle and the pursuit is placed at from 25,000 to 30,000. That is at least as many as the damage of ships, for naval seamen are trained men and can only be replaced by men who have spent many months in training. A ship can be replaced by a ship, but the replacement of trained men is a difficult and complicated assembly of intricate and coordinated machinery. Only experts can direct its power, and the replacement of apparatus, its communications, its fighting equipment, and only skilled technicians can operate the delicate mechanisms which must function together if the vessel is to be an effective fighting unit.

Unless very badly damaged it will take less time to replace Japan's wounded ships than to train replacement crews. The loss of men, immediate replacement can no doubt be drawn from the training establishments, but the reserves are being built up again to provide for future casualties. Like the ships which sank, the men who went down with them and who were killed on the spot which kept aloft represented a permanent and terribly heavy loss to Japanese naval power.

One Guess With Another

An Edmonton officer, home on leave, expresses the personal view that the war in Europe will last for another year at least. "The Germans," says the officer, "are tough, and there is no evidence that the enemy is close to a general breakdown."

This is a cold comfort for the cheerful prophets who have been telling us that the business there is about over, that we may look almost any day for news of the western front coming in the form of a general advance across the country for Berlin. Unfortunately, this contra-prediction has the backing of some strong circumstantial evidence.

Our armies have been held for weeks in Holland and along the Siegfried line, while Germans of both sexes and all ages toiled and toiled to the front to keep the defenses on the Dutch border. The fall is passing, and heavy rains are due any time to turn the flat lands into quagmires where a moved unit will bog down. And Hitler has armed every male between 16 and 60 to fight a guerilla war in Germany when his organized forces have been beaten.

Still, the war may end before Christmas, though the probabilities are the other way. There is little profit, and may be bitter disappointment, in guessing. It is not the enemy quays; not before. That is the certain point, and the important one.

Among these is the fact that the administration will receive the right cycle of publicity this time after 12 years of office. But against the odds it will only as the leader best able to win the vote and establish his domestic record.

The poll of Senator Ball on the issue of internationalism vs. isolationism during the war, is the most important factor in the campaign, namely, that many of the voters are now leaning toward isolationism. Wendell Willkie may vote for Roosevelt, but he will not follow to his domestic policies, simply because, like Senator Ball, he believes he will make an international policy work while Dr. Dewey will not.

Devers will not, could not, or the other hand, the President will hold all the left wing and so-called liberal vote even though the New Deal supporters in general are deeply discouraged.

They will vote for him because the alternative is isolationism, which is the only thing they look upon the President as a man who can hold the line on isolationism. Discuss Plan For National Student Union

Plans for inter-university debate on the possibility of a national student organization were announced at the University of Alberta, on its return to Edmonton after a two-day conference at the University of Saskatchewan.

The aspect of all western universities to the question of an inter-university debate has been obtained and it is expected the University of Alberta will pass a resolution to this effect. The next Western Council meeting Wednesday night. The debate probably will take place sometime in January and it is expected the western university conference will be held at the same time. The University of Manitoba is willing to take part in the debate but has not committed itself on the question of the conference as yet. As yet eastern universities have not given the national student conference suggestion much enthusiastic support. In the event of their agreement to the proposal, a national conference would supplant the western conference already planned by the western universities.

ALBERTA DELEGATES

Alberta representatives at the Saskatchewan conference were Mr. Harper and Bill C. J. treasurer of the union. Members from Saskatchewan were Bob Ellis, president of the Students' Union at the University of Saskatchewan, Fred Berry, president of the debating society at the University of Saskatchewan, and R. Diphtheria Case Reported Here: 2nd of Season

Second case of diphtheria this year was reported to the city health department on Wednesday of last week, and also reported to the second case of undulant fever.

The diphtheria case was that of a woman resident in the Leamington apartment on 114 street immediately north of Jasper Avenue. Dr. G. M. Little stated Wednesday that the source of the disease has not been traced.

The undulant fever case was discovered when a packing plant employee entered hospital for an operation. In this case it has not been possible to trace the source of the disease as the sufferer had been eating at different restaurants and it is thought that he was supplied with raw milk in one of them. Check of the restaurants is being made by city health department authorities.

People of Germany Completely Cowed By Gestapo Terror

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 1.—(AP)—German Storm Troopers and the Gestapo, have cowed the German people with an almost unbroken wave of terror for the last 20 months, a report from Germany received through a radio source said yesterday.

The informant said: "Last week I was told by a Gestapo source that more than 25,000 persons in Berlin were under arrest or in concentration camps. No one believes the arrests in all Germany number between 100,000 and 125,000. Last week the authorities had trouble with foreign workers in western Germany, particularly in the Ruhr district. Several were arrested and executed."

Elements Fail Curb Enthusiasm

Thousands of Children Room Streets

Of City Halloween Celebration

Rain, sleet, dropping temperature and a biting wind failed to dim the enthusiasm of Young Edmontoneers for Halloween. Those who thought the weather would act as a safety valve against traditional pranks proved they were no analysts of weather psychology. Children in thousands fanned the streets in all parts of the city, and pranks in thousands were inflicted on the households and automobiles owners.

"Too bad it is such a bad night; it will spoil the one occasion in the year when the children have their fling," said a trusting benevolent purchaser of supplies at a corner grocery store just as dusk was falling.

"Don't worry about that. The children don't stay in on account of the weather, anything else," chimed in a woman, obviously a mother, who knew "whereof she spoke."

And she was right. Children in widely-varied costumes and in fierce masks were about before dark descended, and continued throughout a long evening.

SOME OF THEM Here are some of the things noticed by one onlooker through the streets: hundreds of deflated balloons, many of them tied with adhesive or otherwise fastened to prolong riding; the same done in suitcases, handbags, and a garage roof; innumerable garbage cans overturned and displaced; gates removed; and cars on front steps; paint and glue on door knobs; windows soaped.

One car, with its tires deflated, the spare removed, the back trunk open and contents spilled about the ground, the hood cover opened and the crank fixed in place.

"Halloween apples" still proved the popular cry. In spite of efforts to dispense apples on account of their shortage—and about the kids still seem to prefer them.

"Halloween apple-shout" was the oldest most popular cry. Householders made gallant efforts to keep up with the demands, but when kids came in groups of 10 to 12 as they not infrequently did, it was difficult and expensive to keep up the pace. Consequently, many housewives when their supplies were exhausted, turned out their lights and quit answering the door. City police reported an unusually quiet night, and most responded to only minor complaints.

Elks at Ponoka Hear of Italy

PONOKA—The local Elks Lodge entertained at a duck supper on Oct. 23 with several out-of-town visitors present. Mayor R. H. Jones and members of the town council were guests along with N. W. Nelson and G. O. Noble, chairman and secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mal W. C. Addinell, who has returned from the Italian fighting front, gave an address outlining events in Italy up to the time of his departure. On behalf of the boys he thanked the people of Ponoka for the work done by the War Chest in sending cigarettes and parcels overseas and urged that the work be continued.

He spoke highly of organizations which send funds for the relief of children, mentioning especially the Elks' fund "Save the Kiddies" and the Kinsmen Milk for Britain project.

A fine report was received from the committee of management of the local Elks' hall. One half the mortgage on the building has been paid off. The interior has been renovated and the outside stuccoed.

W. G. Kitchen, exalted ruler of Ponoka Lodge, acted as master of ceremonies. Others assisting were: W. J. Young, George Becker, J. H. Gilmartin and P. A. McKelvey.

$10,000 Handicap

Opening Feature Hollywood Racing

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The merry-go-round starts up again at Hollywood Park today after nearly three years of war-imposed inactivity.

Top event at the opening of the 34-day race meeting will be the $10,000 Hollywood Premier Handicap, and prospects are that about a dozen thoroughbreds will shoot for the jackpot out of 25 nominated.

Track officials said they expected an initial crowd of at least 40,000. This meeting was expected to enjoy more prosperity than it probably has ever experienced before.

Top weight of 127 pounds for the Hollywood premiere has been saddled on J. B. Burnstein's Okana, winner of six straight races including the $25,000 Bay Meadows handicap. It is unlikely that Burnstein will start the horse in the premiere, however, as he is pointing the animal for $75,000 gold cup and probably won't want to take a chance on the six-furlong event.

Among the 25 eligibles expected to answer the call, however, are Brumfield's Gold Mike, Circle V Stable's Bluff, Coward and Duany's Appleknocker and Marriage, Fair Acres' Kind Sir, C. S. Howarth's Civil Code and Porter's Cap and several other sound animals.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, Nov. 1.—(CP)—If willingness to try out new ideas and change the game to meet new conditions means anything, lacrosse may really be in for the revival that its fans hope for. The Canadian Lacrosse Association intends to try out six-man lacrosse next year, and if the trial ballgame is successful, the old seven-man game may be dropped for good.

That's the latest from the head of the CLA, scholarly A. A. Barnes of Vancouver, as related by Murray Syd Thomas.

Smith of the Winnipeg Free Press, teams in the Quebec area will be asked to play one round of the six-man game, and then report on their preference.

A six-man game has a great many boosters in Quebec, which is a logical place to try the new system.

Even if no change is made, it's still a good sign that the men behind the sport now are at least thinking about its change or improvement.

Juniors anxious: Youthful football enthusiasts and their backers at St. Thomas, Ont., are anxious to revive the Junior Ontario Rugby Football Union, reports N. D. Whitmore in the Times-Journal. Secondary and public schools there are giving the game great support, and league resumed as soon as war conditions permit it.

Fun for All: There must be something wrong with the racetrack bettors in Mexico City, Lou Davies, summertime form-caster for the Western Canadian racing circuit, reported on going on at the Hipodromo de Las Americas south of the border, where he is looking them over now. When the meet opened, three count-on 150-piece bands and a Hi-Hi-Mexican screen beauty were on hand, as extra added attractions. Up this way, they could probably fill the mutual machines without even advertising the races.

Today's Sport Parade

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Big-time hockey, though still scraping the rink bottom for talent, apparently is off to another bonanza season—thanks to the women fans who regard the modified Mayhem on ice as a darling diversion.

A total of 36,381 spectators attended the first four games of the 1944-45 campaign at Toronto, Montreal, Chicago and Detroit.

Chicago, the world's hottest rink and quick town, set an opening record for the National Hockey League Sunday night with 18,418 enthusiasts on hand for the Black Hawks' unsuccessful encounter with Toronto.

This gala gala-way indicates that the six NHL clubs will draw more before March 15 than the estimated 1,300,000 fans of last season—the most successful season financially in the game's history. A major reason for this affluence, according to league brass, is the feminine sweep toward the turbanites. It is estimated that 60 per cent of last season's fans were women.

BETTER BALANCE
ATTENTION during the current campaign should be attracted by a better balance among the clubs, although the general call of play will not be rivaled much. The New York Rangers, for example, should make the playoffs this time, instead of losing 41 of their 50 games.

Montreal's Canadiens are expected to repeat for the championship after a hard fight with the Toronto Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, one of which seems destined for second place, despite New York's challenge. Boston and Chicago are rated next, in that order.

Montreal, beaten only once on home ice last season (in the playoffs), still has nearly the same strong team—four excellent defense men, about 12 top-line forwards, and a good goalie in Bill Durnan.

Toronto's forward line is improved by the return of Dave Schreiber, about the best left wing in the game, who is back after a year's absence. Goalie Frank McCool, although playing his first year off pro hockey, should do well unless bolstered by a recurrence of stomach aches. The Leafs' defense, Detroit, featuring Sid Howe, Bud Brunette and Carl Roseme, Eddie Connelie Don, in the nets, will be aided by a fair defense. Montreal's forward line is average, with the exceptions of Bill Cowley and Herb Cain, but the Bruins have about the strongest defense in the league. Goalie Harry Bennett is a promising youngster who played junior hockey in Canada.

Chicago's prospects are uncertain, after losing Doug Bentley and George Allen to Canadian youth arms. Other forwards are mediocre. The team is in fair shape, however, the Black Hawks' Hugh Stinson has had its reserved seats sold out for all 25 home games since August.

Home Run Turned Into Double Play Thrilled Quinn

By BOB QUINN

HURRY RAY was one of the fastest men I ever saw. He could fly before he ran the bases and played centerfield for the Cleveland club—was no avast they called him Doc Ford.

Ray had got for Marion of the Indiana State League in 1908, when I caught for Anderson.

Ray had hit the ball hard and between the left and center fielders. The man, who later in games actually ran from the plate to first base in three and one-fifth seconds, picked up Johnson at second base.

The pitcher was so slow, however, that our centerfielder retrieved the ball in the distant precinct and two relays got it to me on the first hop in time to tag Johnson falling into the plate exhausted, and then Ray, attempting to hook slide around.

My eyes popped out completing a double play on what easily should have been a home run.

ASTROLOGY IS NOT A SCIENCE

Prof. Forgan, fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge, has pointed out that no such thing exists as a "Science of Astrology," for astrology is not a science in the sense that science is, and any standing whatever in the scientific world. It is practiced by countless superstitions and ignorant people throughout the world who believe that the stars control their destinies. There is a true science of the stars called "astronomy" and this science has never found any reason to believe that the stars affect human fortunes or destinies. To say there is a science of astrology would be like saying there is a science of "lunacy," a scientist says.

These Women!

"When our maid left, we put in a chute to an ash can in the basement!"

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Formulas have to be related to the baby's digestion — which means the age has much to do with this — and to the baby's weight. A formula that is just right for one baby probably will not be so well satisfied with a formula that is just right for another.

Mrs. M.P.M. says her 2-month-old baby weighs 14 pounds, having been born at 7½ pounds. "This formula is ten ounces of condensed milk, 20 ounces of boiled water and two and one-half tablespoons of corn syrup. He gets four ounces of this formula every four hours and his formula is divided into five bottles. He sleeps from 7 to 8 at night and 6 to 9 the next morning. He was so sleepy when awakened for a night feeding that I just stopped trying to make him eat."

Sometimes he goes four hours between bottles, but most often it is only three hours and then he gets just clapped. He is a good baby, laughs and kicks for hours at a time. But he spits up a lot of the milk he eats and has a rash on his face recently. He was only three weeks or so when he turned from stomach to back and now he sleeps on his stomach all of the time.

Am I over-feeding him? Is that what causes him to spit up? He would take more if I would give it to him but I am afraid to do that when he spits up. What other foods can he have and when? I am far from a doctor but I can't get it out of my mind.

The formula is fine and would suit the average 2-month-old baby to a T. But your baby weighs as much as a 4-month-old child. Try a slightly stronger formula, perhaps 20 to 25 of water and 1½ tablespoons of corn syrup. You may find him able to take this full amount in four rather than five feedings.

You might also experiment a little to see if the orange juice may be causing the rash. If you omit it for a few days and substitute an apple acid tablet dissolved in water and added to the milk, you will be able to determine whether it is the food that is responsible. If it isn't then you may have to make a change of milk.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Teen-Age Marriages Unhappy and Unwise

After 10 Years of Warnings, Writer Finds That Girls Boy Still Leap Into Wedlock and Live to Deeply Regret

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 17 years old. I have been married almost two years. I have twin babies 11 months old and expect another one soon. My husband is 22 years of age and is in the service somewhere overseas.

I love my husband and babies very much, but I am getting tired of being tied down with babies and cooking and washing and ironing a little freedom and pleasures that belong to my time of life. My fate is sealed. I want to want to want other girls against getting married so young.

Answer: I doubt if there is any cure-all for jealousy, for jealousy doesn't have to have anything tangible to grow on. It manifests its own poison and can fasten just as much upon fanciful as upon real grounds. However, your remedy is worth trying. And perhaps if husbands blundered their wives more, they would have to do less explaining of why their secretaries always happen to be good-looking.

PERSONALITY DEAR MISS DIX: What is personality? TOM AND BOB. Answer: Personality is the little intangible something about each of us that makes us different from anyone else in the world. It is either our greatest blessing or our greatest curse.

Dumb-Bells

IT MUST BE VERY COLD IN NEW ZEALAND THAT'S WHERE FROZEN MEAT COMES FROM!

I have told them that a young girl's taste in men changed from day to day with her development, and that she knows no more what kind of a husband she would want when she was grown up than she knows what sort of a tad she will want four or five seasons from now. I have told them that marriage wasn't just a permanent state with a lad who was a good dancer and a keen leader, that it was work and worry, and crying babies and diapers, and putting somebody else's happiness before their own.

And, most of all, I have warned them, poor foolish little girls that if they married before they had any playtime in their lives, they would regret it, that before their trousseaus were worn out, they would be tired of sitting at home every evening with a boy who was just as tired of them as they were of him, and that they would want to be running around and going places and doing things and having good times, as the other girls of their age were doing. For being married doesn't change a girl's desires. It only makes the things she wants to do more tempting because they are forbidden.

I have told them that under Heaven there is no other figure more pathetic than the child wife and mother struggling with a job that is too old for her, and with which she has neither the wisdom nor the strength to cope. But teenagers don't listen to advice. They are sure that nothing untoward can happen to them. And they go on marrying and filling the divorce courts.

JEALOUSY CURE DEAR DOROTHY DIX: They say there is no cure for jealousy. My remedy for it would be for boys to marry to treat their wives like babies. Instead of household conveniences. A wife is bound to doubt her husband's affection if he never gives her word of love and praise. My husband's odd silence has given me an inferiority complex that makes me fear every

AMERICA'S CARD AUTHORITY

It is not often that we find a hand in which a slam can be made in either direction. Today's hand was played in the Canadian "Able" Tournament at Washington, D.C., produced some unusual results.

A number of players in the South position opened the bidding with

♠ 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
 ♥ 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
 ♦ 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
 ♣ 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

one club. Now if North bid hearts, they would get to a six-club contract, which was defeated if East opened with a club. However, if South opened the bidding with one heart, the natural bid for the King, West made seven spades. If he refused to over, the contract was held to six.

In many cases, after South's heart opening West made a nice overall of two spades, an aggressive bidding East and West arrived at a six-club contract, especially when North and South tried to get to six hearts. The spade contract could not be defeated, and in fact, when South made the mistake of covering the bid of diamonds with the King, West made seven spades. If he refused to over, the contract was held to six.

Placed on Reserve

Col. John Hogg, DSO, ED, 45, of Calgary, one of the heroes of the 1914-15 campaign, was placed on the reserve of officers as from yesterday. It was announced here.

 LONDON, Nov. 1.—(CP)—British stock market today continued on yesterday's low upward trend, with signs of increased buying.
 British funds were in request early but subsequent adjustments resulted in more activity, while British railways continued to show a firming tendency, encouraged by Sir Monagham Boyd's statement regarding the favorable position of British-owned lines on the Argentine government, despite sanctioning increased tariffs, indicating the favorable attitude of the Argentine government towards the railways.

"Anybody here from Calgary?"

ON a soft, spring night in April, 1944, P.O. J. L. Webb, Hamilton, Ontario, was set to fly his first sortie as captain of an aircraft destined to bomb Montreal. Crossing the enemy coast, the aircraft was hit by anti-aircraft fire, tearing several big holes in the fuselage. P.O. Webb flew on to Belgium in his crippled craft, as scheduled.

In the bombing run over the target, it became apparent that the hydraulic system had been damaged. The bomb doors could not be opened. P.O. Webb made another circuit of the target, while his engineer struggled to open the bomb bay doors by hand.

On the second run in, the aircraft was attacked by a fighter. This was beaten off, and the bombs were released on Montreal. Coming up from the target, three more fighters closed in on the damaged aircraft. Two fighters were successfully evaded, but while fighting the third, P.O. Webb's aircraft was righted by enemy bullets. One engine was destroyed. The port aileron and mainplane were damaged.

With controls severely damaged, P.O. Webb flew back to Britain, landing with only two engines but bringing his aircraft and his crew to safety. Because of "superb skill and exceptional devotion to duty in the face of heavy odds," P.O. Webb received the D.S.O.

When you think you may have bought all the Victory Bonds you can possibly afford, ask yourself if you may be "calling quits" too soon. How does your perseverance say, stick up against the stick-to-itiveness of any one of our fighting airmen, men like P.O. Webb?

Our assignment on the home front is not over yet. We still must back our fighting forces until our mission is completed, till we can bring the last man safely home. It is vital that we, too, stick with our task until this is accomplished.

In this Seventh Victory Loan we are asked to buy more bonds than we bought before, to bring complete Victory—quickly.
